Welcome to oSC13!

Some practical tips about the venue

* the entry hall has booths from our sponsors, partners and communities like Mozilla, Oracle, KDE and of course openSUSE!
* You can find room Zeus, on your left (behind booths). Hephaestus, the second largest room can be found on your right hand when you are past registration. You can find the smaller BoF and workshop rooms upstairs (check with stella).
* You can find drinks and snacks at the bar, just walk past the registration. The toilets are next to the bar.
* Outside you can find 'the beach bar' where you can get refreshing drinks and cool your feet in the small swimming pools.
* The beach bar uses 'Geeko money' which you can buy for 50ct each on the right side of the registration booth.
* Remember that for the workshops you should register in advance if you want to be sure about a spot. Find it here: tinyurl.com/qgqrc8t
* Next to registration you can find a table with flyers and information about Thessaloniki, public transport etcetera.* If you have any other questions or needs, ask at the Registration desk!* there is a charging room to the left of the registration desk. Here you can give your laptop, tablet or phone the juice they need to be of good service.* There is an android app with the conference schedule, find a link on the top-right of the conference website.* As you can see on the posters around, our hash tag is #osc13 and that's the group where you can find us on flickr, too.
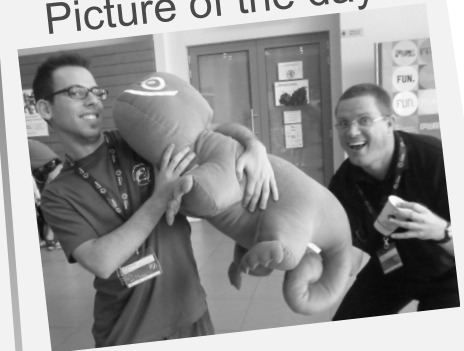

Did you know?

Lars Vogdt shares with us: We keep everything running with 15 computers; a printer; 400 meters of network cable; 6 powerful WLAN access points and a special openSUSE Mirror set up for the conference so you will all be up to date!

As a reminder!

* Everything is streamed and online
* people take pictures everywhere, if you do, it would be cool if you could share them under a free license like Creative Commons!
* If you want to volunteer, ask at registration, we can always use more helping hands!

Picture of the day

Crazy™ of the day

Not enough power outlets in your room for your gadgets? A tip: ask a fellow geeko if he can share some power plugs!

- Tomas Cech

Ralf Flaxa

Yesterday we kicked off the openSUSE Conference with the keynote by Georg Greve, today Ralf Flaxa from SUSE will open the day. We already had almost 170 visitors and we expect many more today! There is again a full program with awesome workshops, interesting talks and collaborative BoF sessions. Have a lot of Fun!

- The Conference Team